

Graduate attributes

The graduates of the College of Medicine at Najran University should adopt the following attributes:

- Integrate the learned theoretical knowledge and practical skills to improve the quality of medical practice.
- Demonstrate adequate teamwork capacity and enthusiastic behavior in a multidisciplinary team environment.
- Apply sound communication skills that promote doctor-patient partnership and respect for the diverse characteristics of the clients.
- Adhere to ethical and bylaws in medical practice.
- Show compassion, respect, and honesty for all patients, regardless of their ethnicity, gender, socio-economic status, or cultural background.
- Demonstrate professional conduct in all activities and the capacity for continuous learning to improve knowledge and skills.
- Boost and respect the confidentiality of others.
- Enhance care for colleagues and one's self.